

Call Run-Sheet — v2

Internal · your talking script for the call

Strategy Reset v2 · for you only · 17 June 2026

Goal of the call: (1) release the $750 milestone, (2) sign-off on the new direction, (3) agree the $1,000 fee for the next phase, (4) lock the production budget, (5) swap the bonus to free-community signups, (6) agree how they pay. Tone: calm and confident — you delivered the work. This is a better plan, not an apology.

0 · Open (30 seconds)

“Thanks for making time. The first 15 days are built and delivered. They didn’t break through on reach — and I’ve got a clear, honest read on why, plus a sharper plan that fixes it. I’ll walk you through the new direction, exactly what it costs to run, and a cleaner way to structure the bonus.”

1 · Close out Milestone 1 — $750 (do this first)

- The first 15 days are complete, contracted work — independent of whatever we decide next.
- Ask plainly: “Can we release the $750 for the first block today so we start the next cycle clean?”
- If they hesitate on results: that milestone is for production & delivery, which is done. The reach problem is exactly what the new plan solves — and they’re not funding that blindly; the whole budget is laid out.

2 · Why it underperformed (60 seconds, matter-of-fact)

- Hook lost the first 3 seconds (static opens).
- Led with polish, not a contrarian opening line.
- No proven structure under the posts.
- No paid reach — organic-only on cold accounts barely distributes.

“None of these are fatal. They’re all fixable, and the fix is the new direction.”

3 · The new direction (core pitch)

- Model what already wins: find niche posts doing millions of views, break down the structure, write original Anya content into that proven shape.
- If he worries about copying: “We borrow the structure, not the content. Script, voice and brand stay 100% ours. Every top creator works this way.”
- Three platforms native: one structure → YouTube + Instagram + TikTok.
- Paid boost, 7-day push: “This is the lever that was missing. The difference between a good post nobody sees and one that compounds.”

4 · Your fee for this phase — $1,000

- Frame the jump from $750: “The first block was the old content-only rate — $750, half of the $1,500/month. This phase is $1,000 because it’s no longer just content: it includes the viral research and running the paid campaign across all three platforms.”
- Keep it separate from the ad/tool budget. The $1,000 is your labour; the $915 is the engine’s running cost (mostly his ad spend). Don’t let them blur.

4b · The budget (lead with the total)

- Tool stack: $235/mo — HeyGen, Higgsfield, Claude, Metricool, ElevenLabs, CapCut, Canva.
- Paid boost: $595 for a 7-day push (Standard; Lean ~$315 / Aggressive ~$1,050).
- +10% buffer → one-cycle total ≈ $915. Anything he already pays for, we deduct.

5 · Restructure the bonus (your key ask)

“The old bonus was $500 for the first 40 paid signups. Problem: whether a lead converts to paid depends on the sales page, price and follow-up — things I don’t control. So I’d be paid on something outside my hands.”

“What I do control is getting people into the free community. So I want to tie the same $500 to that — $5 per verified member, target 100. Same budget, tied to a number I can move — and it builds you an owned audience you keep marketing to for free.”

- Scalable hook: “Want more momentum? Raise the target at the same rate — 250 members for $1,000. You decide the dial.”
- If he pushes on rate: $5/signup is the anchor. Flex the target up, not the rate down.

6 · The test & decision (lowers his risk)

“We run 10 scripts over 10 days with the paid push behind the best ones, then read the numbers together — reach, followers, free signups — and decide to scale, adjust, or stop. No open-ended commitment.”

7 · Payment — give him the choice

- Option A — milestone release: settles in ~7 days, stays on-platform.
- Option B — direct to your US account: clears in ~2 days, faster start.

“Either works for me. It’s just how fast you want the next cycle moving — if you want it live this week, the direct route is quicker.”

Numbers cheat-sheet (memorise these)

Item	Number
Milestone 1 (release now)	$750
Management fee — next 15-day phase	$1,000
Tool stack / month	$235
Paid boost (7-day, Standard)	$595

One-cycle budget (incl. buffer)	~$915
Bonus rate	$5 / free signup
Bonus target / payout	100 → $500
Scale option	250 → $1,000
Pay: milestone	~7 days
Pay: direct US account	~2 days

Likely objections → your answer

- “Why pay $750 if it didn’t go viral?” → It’s for delivered production, not a virality guarantee. Reach is what the new plan fixes — fully budgeted, your call to fund.
- “Why is the next phase $1,000, not $750?” → The first block was content-only at the old rate. This phase adds viral research and managed paid advertising across 3 platforms — more hands-on work. Still below the original $1,500/month run rate.
- “Isn’t copying viral posts risky/unoriginal?” → We model structure, not content. Standard practice for every serious creator. Brand stays ours.
- “Why pay for free signups, not sales?” → That’s the part I control and can guarantee effort against. Sales depend on your funnel. You also keep the audience.
- “$915 is a lot.” → Most of it is your ad spend going to your reach, plus tools you keep. We can run the Lean tier (~$315 boost) to start smaller.
- “Can we skip paid boost?” → That’s the exact thing missing in month one. Without it we’d repeat what didn’t work.
